Summary

With the advent of the translation of the first three volumes of Bavinck's Gereformeerde Dogmatiek, there is increased interest in this great theologian.

Dr. Herman Bavinck (1854-1921) was one of the finest Reformed theologians in the history of the Church. A.A. van Ruler, said, "In all the theological cacophony today, give me the voice of Dr. Herman Bavinck." Bavinck's was a thoroughly solid, yet irenic, voice.

Gleason (an expert on Bavinck) describes Bavinck's education at Leiden University, his first and only pastoral ministries in the Friesian village of Franeker, his fruitful time in Kampen as professor of the Theological Seminary there, his eventual transfer to the Free University, and the events surrounding his death in 1921.
